

NEVER ALL TOGETHER

A Harry Potter fan fiction by Edenvirg.
Beautiful banner by thetofuu_beaver.

“I loved you then, and whatever sin it is, I love you still!” Hermione Granger never imagined that her wildest fantasy of being with the James Potter could come true. But while for Hermione it had just been yesterday, for James it had already been seventeen years ago. A sweeping tale of how love transcends time, just to prove it can.

Disclaimer: The author is not directly affiliated with J.K. Rowling or any of the publishers of the Harry Potter series. No money is being made and no copyright infringement is intended.

Author's Notes: I didn't realize there were some Hermione/James fics going around! I didn't read any of them anyway, lest they influence the story I've already thought out. I am hoping this turns out to be unique. And hey, this is a slightly AU fic, just in case you didn't notice, so non-compliance with canon must be expected. But I hope I left enough canon in it to endear this story to your heart, anyway. :) I would also like to thank my wonderful beta, Bobbey (NalanieKeala), who spotted the grammatical errors, identified the inconsistencies and made the story sound more British. Thank you for agreeing to beta for me! :)

Table of Contents

Chapter 1: Never the Time and Place

Chapter 2: No Day but Today

Chapter 3: Light My Candle

More chapters coming soon!